

Dojo Technology Hires Experienced Project Manager

August 12, 2004

Dojo Technology, a provider of electronic discovery services for the legal community, announced the hiring of Brad Shirk as a Lead Production Manger in their main processing center outside of Seattle, Washington.

“We are very excited about Brad’s coming on board with Dojo,” said Ed Hamilton, President of Dojo Technology. “This year we have seen a drastic increase in the number and size of projects coming to Dojo. The recent acquisition of an 840GB data searching and conversion job required us to go and find someone of Brad’s skills who could be a strong lead in Project Management and Production.”

“Brad brings several years of litigation support experience to Dojo. Most importantly he has experience and a good understanding in the new and rapidly growing industry of electronic data conversion,”

Dojo Technology, in its third year of operations provides electronic discovery services for the legal community.
